Form: evergreen shrub, 2-3 foot tall, irregularly shaped but usually pruned to shape. Smooth, gray-brown colored bark, often has lichen on bark.

Flower: Inconspicuous, white.
Fruit: red but sometimes yellow berries in auxillary clusters. The male form of Dwarf Schilling’s Yaupon Holly does not get berries.
Leaves: Simple alternate, elliptic up to 1 ½” long, glossy above, new growth often pinkish, margins crenate.